

SAINT GILES-in-the-WOOD CHURCHYARD
RECORD of GRAVESTONES and MEMORIALS

Existing records have been amended where appropriate and updated to July 1999

Some unmarked graves are included although this is intended as a record of marker stones, many of which are now located away from the relevant burial plots.

St Giles Church is a Grade II Listed Building of Special Architectural or Historic Interest.
☛ denotes gravestones which are currently recorded by the DoE under the same Listing
(see Appendix A for details)

Parish church. C15, extensively altered 1862-3, other works in 1879. Local stone rubble laid to rough courses; sandstone ashlar detail; slate roof with created ridge tiles.

Plan: Nave and chancel, north and south aisles are not full length, 1879 vestry and organ chamber on north side of the chancel. North and south porches. West tower. Only the tower and outer walls survived the 1862-3 rebuilding and even these were much altered.

Exterior: West tower of 2 storeys with low diagonal buttresses, embattled parapet with corner pinnacles and internal stair. Plain rectangular belfry windows. West doorway is a 2-centred arch and moulded surround; its granite jambs may be medieval. The window above is 2 lights, with decorated tracery, hoodmould and carved foliate label stops. There are similar windows around the rest of the church. A clock was installed in the tower in 1879 with its face on the east side and the south side has the remains of a C17 mural monument. Both porches are gabled with 2-centred arch doorways on their east sides the north one surmounted by a large carving of the Royal arms.

Interior is wholly C19. Nave and aisles have open roofs carried on arch-braced trusses. Chancel roof is a panelled timber vault painted with angels and Evangelists. Tower arch is a tall 2-centred arch with moulded surround and Norman-style nook shafts. Chancel arch has a moulded surround springing from moulded corbels. Each side of the nave are 5-bay arcades with cylindrical granite piers with moulded capitals. Full height arches to both porches. Segmental arch from chancel to the 1879 organ chamber. The walls are plastered except in the tower. The tile floor includes encaustic tiles in the chancel and contains some good C16 and C17 gravestabs and a couple include brasses, one in memory of Mary Rolle (died 1570) and another in memory of Joanna Risdon (died 1610). The best however is a brass in memory of Alyanora Pollard (died 1430).

Furniture and fittings: Sanctuary is lined with Beerstone ashlar wainscoting with geometric-pattern friezes of inlaid marble and a good carved alabaster reredos; blind Gothic arcade featuring sacred emblems. The east window is flanked by marble Commandment boards framed with carved alabaster. Brass altar rail. Oak stalls with some Gothic ornamentation. Low wall serves as the chancel screen. It is Beerstone with marble coping and incorporates a good marble pulpit complete with brass book rest and candle holders. Brass lectern. Plain pine benches. Beerstone font in Perpendicular style. Gothic style oak tower screen. Circa 1987 part of south aisle screened off as a meeting room.

Memorials: Good C17 monument in north porch in memory of Mary Risdon (date illegible); oval plaque flanked by pilasters, moulded entablature with swan-necked pediment surmounted by an heraldic cartouche, moulded sill on acanthus consoles and carved apron. South porch has marble memorials to Henry Eberly (died 1710) and Henry Hale (died 1740). In the south aisle is the recumbent figure of Thomas Chafe (died 1648) with a couple of heraldic cartouches, all that remains from a C17 chest tomb. It was painted circa 1985. Also the south aisle includes a good inlaid marble and mosaic memorial to Mark George Kerr Rolle (died 1907).

All the windows contain C19 stained glass, the grisaille glass installed to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria.

Sources: J Clemens Church Guide (1983) is good and informative. Devon SMR.

Pair of adjacent anonymous headstones approximately 34 metres south-south-west of the tower of the Church of St Giles
II

Pair of anonymous headstones. Undated, probably late C18. Both are slate. The stand side by side. The left one is square-headed standing approximately 500 millimetres high. The right one is now-headed and stands approximately 600 millimetres high. Both are inscribed with Roman serif upper and lower case lettering. Both are poetic epigraphs with no name or date included. The left headstone inscription is addressed to parents and suggests it commemorates the death of more than one infant. By contrast the right headstone inscription speaks of an old person, "near ninety years" and is addressed to their "children's children". Both stones have been moved to here.

Lychgate and adjoining east churchyard walls of the Church of St Giles II

Lychgate and adjoining churchyard walls. 1877. Lychgate has side sleeper walls of local stone rubble with sandstone ashlar quoins and coping. It is timber framed above. The side walls are an open arcade with trefoil-headed bays. The roof is slate with bands of scallop-shaped slate with crested ridge tiles. It is gable-ended with cusped bargeboards each end and wrought iron apex crosses. Each end are the beam trusses with king post and curving braces. Original timber double gates with diagonal cast iron grilles over the middle rails and a cast iron crest with fleur-de-lys finials. The floor and flight of 5 steps down to the lane are slate. Each side stone rubble churchyard walls ramp down torevet the churchyard. Source: J Clemens. Church guide (1983).
